Questions 32-34 refer to the following conversation.

㉠ 미국식 발음 → 영국식 발음

- M: A customer named Tami Branson got into a minor accident with one of our rental cars. The issue is that there's a large dent and some scratches on the front bumper. I just started working here last week, so I'm not sure how to handle the situation.
- W: Did the customer choose to purchase collision insurance for the car?
- M: No, she didn't. That means that she'll have to pay for any work that the vehicle requires, right?
- W: That's correct. Call her now and tell her we'll provide details for the sum she owes once we've received a quote for the repairs. In the meantime, I'll inform our manager about the incident.

Questions 35-37 refer to the following conversation.

㉡ 미국식 발음 → 미국식 발음

- M: Good morning, and thank you for calling Smithson Internet Services. My name is Paul. How can I help you?
- W: There's an error with my current bill. When I subscribed to your service, I was informed that I would only be charged $29.99 per month for Internet access. While that was the sum of my first bill, I've been charged $38.99 for May. What's the reason for this inconsistency?
- M: Ah, I think I know what the problem is. In order to receive our promotional offer of $29.99 for more than your first month of service, you must enroll in our automatic bill payment system. By signing up online to have money automatically deducted from your bank account each month, your bill will be reduced to the promotional rate.

Questions 38-40 refer to the following conversation.

㉢ 미국식 발음 → 호주식 발음

- W: Have you finished e-mailing the invitations for the annual fundraiser? You know our boss is going to ask team members about the status of their tasks in this afternoon's meeting, right?
- M: I've sent them out for all the regular guests, and I'm just now making an e-mail template for our VIPs. Can I send a draft of the VIP invitation to you? I want to make sure it looks right on the screen when received.
- W: Go right ahead. I've already made the necessary arrangements with the event caterer, so I have some time to give you a hand.

Questions 41-43 refer to the following conversation.

㉣ 호주식 발음 → 영국식 발음

- M: Hello. This is Matt Schwartz from CPS Bank. I'm trying to get ahold of Janice Carroll. I have something urgent to tell her.
- W: This is Janice. Is there an issue with any of my accounts?
- M: Fortunately not. I'm calling because I believe you left your wallet at our branch when you visited us earlier today. It's small, dark red, and has many of your important credit cards inside. We can keep it here for you until you come and get it.
- W: I didn't even realize I had left it behind. Thank you so much. I'll get my car keys and head over there right now.

Questions 44-46 refer to the following conversation.

㉤ 영국식 발음 → 미국식 발음

- M: Actually, we're starting in about five minutes, so you won't have that much time. Is it something that can't wait?
- W: Well, I just received a text message from an agent at the chauffeur company saying that our driver will be a bit late picking us up this evening.
- M: Hmm . . . We're supposed to review today's events with our director back at the hotel tonight, and we don't want to miss that. So, you'd better go into the corridor and place the call after all.

Questions 47-49 refer to the following conversation.

㉥ 미국식 발음 → 호주식 발음

- W: Good morning. I'm here for an interview with Mr. Allen Lowe. My name is Heather Fox, and I've applied for the position of marketing manager with your company.
- M: I think you got off the elevator at the wrong floor, Ms. Fox. This floor is for the information technology department. I believe the marketing division is on the 17th floor, but you should probably ask someone at the main desk in the lobby.
- W: Oh, sorry about that. I checked the building directory, but maybe I misread it.
- M: Actually, it's not your fault. The company reorganized the office last month, and a few departments changed floors.

Questions 50-52 refer to the following conversation.

30 미국식 발음 → 영국식 발음

M: You're listening to Around Town on Radio 94.7, and I'm your host, Jean Paul. My guest today is Mayor Nina Dubois, who will be sharing details about a restoration initiative here in Montreal following last month's rain storm. Thanks for joining me, Mayor Dubois.

W: Thanks for having me. As you noted, the recent storm caused a huge amount of damage to sections of the city, especially the trees growing along many of our streets. The initiative is aimed at replacing the ones that had to be chopped down.

M: I'm sure residents will greatly appreciate that. Now, is there a timeline regarding the duration of the project?

W: We hope to plant over 2,000 trees over the next two months.

M: Indeed. Let's call a broker now and arrange for some showings.

W: She called in sick. Is there something urgent to be done?

M: Actually, yes. She is supposed to review this packet of legal documents before I ship it out. Um . . . Can you take care of this for me instead?

W: That depends. What's it for?

M: It's the bookkeeping records that our company was contracted to provide for Ace Landscaping. You'd only need to verify that the dates and calculations are correct.

W: OK, that's not an issue then. When must the paperwork be returned?

M: Ah . . . as soon as possible. The clients expect the documents before tomorrow evening.

W: In that case, I'll work on it right away. However, you should send them as a rush delivery. Otherwise, they might not arrive in time.

Questions 62-64 refer to the following conversation and table.

30 미국식 발음 → 영국식 발음

M: Hi, Kim. I heard you're going on vacation next week.

W: That's right. I'm going to Italy. I originally planned to just relax at a tropical resort, but my cousin is studying art in Rome and invited me to visit her.

M: That sounds great. I've always wanted to go to Europe. How long will you be staying there?

W: Just for six days. I was hoping to go for an entire week, however, I couldn't get a flight on Monday morning. So I'm leaving the following afternoon.

M: That's still plenty of time to sightsee. I'm sure you'll have a wonderful holiday.

Questions 65-67 refer to the following conversation and schedule.

30 미국식 발음 → 미국식 발음

Questions 53-55 refer to the following conversation.

30 미국식 발음 → 영국식 발음

M: Do you need to shut off power to the building to safely install electrical wiring?

W: Yeah, I'd risk being shocked otherwise.

M: In that case, can you wait a while? I need to cut some wood with my power saw.

W: Will that take more than a few minutes?

M: I have 20 boards to cut. It'll take me about . . . ah . . . 30 minutes.

W: Well, I need to install the wiring before I can continue with my other duties.

M: Hmm. I guess you'd better do it now, then.

W: Thanks. The power will be up and running again very soon.

M: Just be sure to let me know when you turn it back on.

W: Certainly. I'll notify you right away.

Questions 56-58 refer to the following conversation with three speakers.

30 영국식 발음 → 호주식 발음 → 미국식 발음

W1: Oh, the leasing rate for our office will increase by 10 percent again this year.

M: It figures. This neighborhood has become a lot more expensive ever since it was redeveloped.

W2: We should really consider relocating.

W1: I'd be interested in searching for spaces over in the Grover neighborhood.

W2: Same here. Since the area is up-and-coming, real estate prices are still reasonable.

W1: In that case, we should begin researching our options soon. Our current lease ends in just two months.

left. Wasn't a shipment supposed to arrive today at 8 A.M.?

M: Unfortunately, Biz Plus, our office goods supplier, recently changed shipment times. Orders now get here at 11 o'clock. I e-mailed everyone an updated delivery schedule . . . didn't you get it?

W: No, I haven't checked my e-mail yet. Well, that should still leave you time to get everything printed before the 1 P.M. meeting, then.

 Questions 68-70 refer to the following conversation and graph.

 영국식 발음 → 호주식 발음

W: Andrew, it's Rita. Are you done prepping for tomorrow's presentation on our annual sales results?

M: Almost. I'm still collecting and analyzing some data, but I'm going to finish everything soon.

W: Great. Have you discovered anything noteworthy in the data so far?

M: Actually, I have. We didn't achieve our sales quota of 10,000 units for some of our products.

W: Is that so? I'm surprised to hear that.

M: Yes. The sales director wants to discuss the product that got closest to the quota but just fell short tomorrow. I'll show a graph detailing the performance of our various electronic goods.

Thank you for attending this event in honor of my time with Forge Air. It's hard to believe that I've been working at the company for 20 years. But, um, even though a lot of time has passed, I still feel as passionately about being a pilot as my first day on the job. That's because this position gives me the privilege of seeing so much of the world. What I appreciate the most, though, is working with a devoted and skilled team of colleagues. I consider myself very lucky to have such a rewarding career, and I look forward to my future with the company.

This is John Grundy from Saturn Camera. One of our technicians was able to fix your P83 digital camera. The issue was that the automatic shutter was stuck in the closed position, so it had to be replaced with a new one. Because your item is still under the manufacturer warranty period, you will not be billed for the repairs or the return shipping expenses. As of now, I expect your camera to be picked up for delivery by a Coast Postal Service courier today. If you want to find out where the package is during the delivery process, I recommend visiting the company's Web site and entering the shipping number. Your number is 41459. Thank you for your patience.

Questions 83-85 refer to the following excerpt from a meeting.

I want to take a few minutes to discuss a situation that has arisen. The director from Wayne Incorporated called me this morning regarding the uniforms we're designing for her company. She wants the clothing to be ready for production by . . . ah . . . by July 17, not July 25. Before I let her know if we can accommodate the request, I need some information. This is where you get involved. I'd like you to tell me whether you feel like we've made enough progress on the project thus far to be able to complete it ahead of schedule. Please state your opinions openly and honestly. I have no problem explaining to our client that her request can't be met.

I want to introduce everyone to Deloris Mendez. Ms. Mendez is here to represent the Clean Energy Agency, an independent organization that monitors oil refiners like ours. The reason for Ms. Mendez's visit is to ensure that . . . ah . . . that our facility is following the necessary waste management laws. In order to accomplish this, she's going to conduct some on-site tests to determine how many chemicals are in the water we release into the sewer system. She'll also need to gather small amounts of water to be examined in a laboratory. I expect her to be done around 11 A.M., so her presence will not be very disruptive to our work.

Questions 89-91 refer to the following excerpt from a meeting.

Our company is going to be expanding the Pure Pet product line this spring. Our president wants us to concentrate our energies on introducing new types of treats for cats, and I definitely think she's on the right track. This is because our Pure Pet dog foods have strong sales levels in the United States and Canada, suggesting that we can hold off on introducing new dog food products for another couple of quarters. I'd like you all to think of ideas and share what you've come up with at the end of this week. Also, be sure to take our recent customer questionnaire results into account when considering new product options.

Questions 92-94 refer to the following talk and graph.

Now, if you look at the . . . umm . . . brochures that have been distributed to your tables, you'll find a complete breakdown of how we plan to allocate the money raised tonight. I also want to let you know that you're invited to a ceremony that will be held in June to honor you as well as the two authors who placed above you and the one just below you. My name is Ruth Easton, and I'm a guide here at Fort Ashbrook. I'll be taking you through the historic town's buildings and describing what life was like here when the town was inhabited. You are free to take pictures at any of the sites, but we kindly ask that you refrain from touching items on display. Also, food and beverages are not permitted in any of the structures. We'll begin at the oldest structure in the town, which was built just around the time of the gold rush. Seeing as we're all gathered here at the town hall, let's go directly across the street now to start the tour.
